THIRD WEEK LEARNING FROM HOME

We hope your third week of learning from home has been full of more highs than lows and you have taken time out to just “be” with your family and enjoy time together when everything becomes overwhelming. Everyone’s health, safety and wellbeing must be of the highest priority.

The staff have continued to send home a wide range of activities from explicit teaching [requiring guidance] to independent work. We have distributed paper packages where required and provided alternate activities. We are all watching the daily case count and are awaiting news from the NSW Health Department directives for our areas and specifically schools for next week and beyond. Teachers are trying to schedule more zoom meetings around each class schedule, knowing limits on devices etc in homes. We know these are vital to ensure that sense of connection for our students. We hoped the additional information and links we have sent home have been useful.

As you may be aware, the NSW Premier announced today that our region will continue to operate a Level 4 regulations until 10th September.

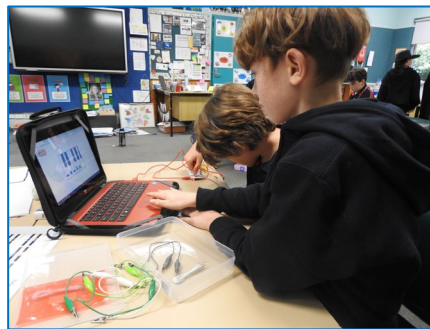

We are hoping that by tomorrow afternoon, we should be informed of what next week’s regulations are and how we adapt them to our school setting. There will be a quick turnaround in planning to get the information out to our community for Monday.

ILP MEETINGS

A reminder that all ILP meetings and other events are currently postponed. We will carefully consider how we deliver information regarding ILP plans for consultation this term. We are also planning how we can adapt our Public Speaking competition.

GENEROUS DONATION FOR ART

Our school has received a very generous donation from one of our kindergarten grandparents [Anonymous Grams in

P&C News

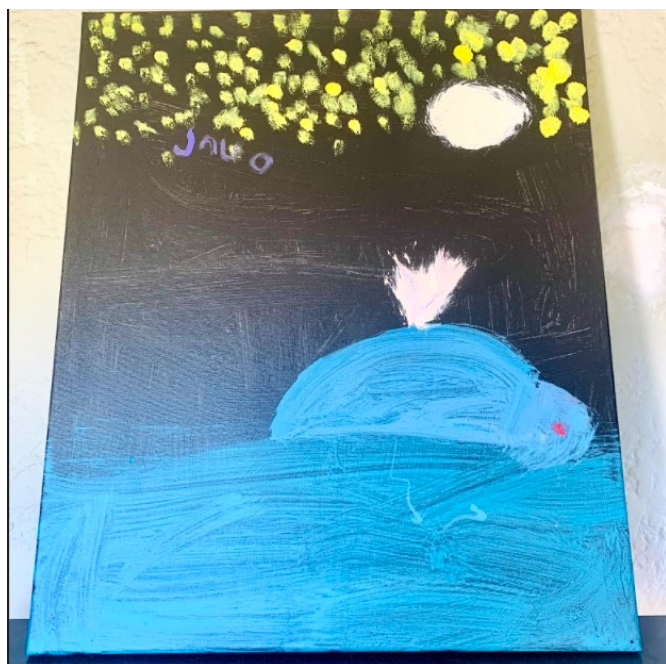

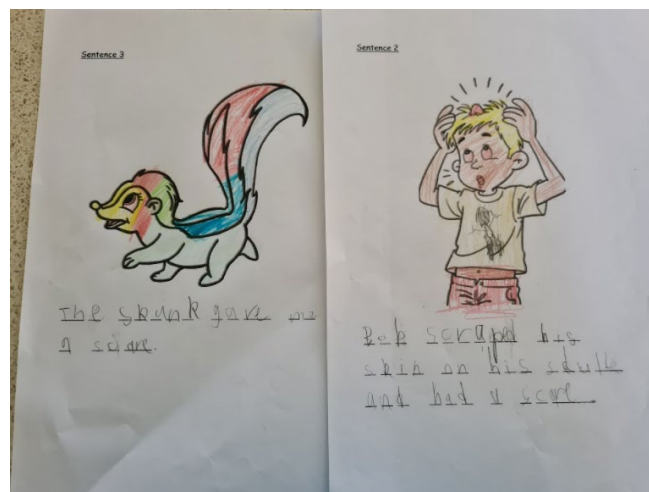

In order for the P&C to continue to function, and allow for canteens, welcome events, etc. we need more parents that are willing to take on Executive roles. These roles don't need to be big time requirements - we all have busy family lives, work commitments, and other life commitments. The P&C AGM is scheduled for the first week of September, and this is when the P&C needs parents to step forward and assume these Executive roles. Details will follow with role descriptions and more information about the P&C objectives.
